

National Air Toxics Assessment released

EPA has released its most recent National Air Toxics Assessment (NATA) based on 2014 data. It is accessible on the EPA website and includes maps and explanatory information. You can access the NATA information at <https://www.epa.gov/national-air-toxics-assessment>. Users should be aware that the 2014 information is based on conditions in 2014 and does not include current air quality data.